

February 7, 2019

Dear Current and Prospective Students,

The College of Human Environmental Sciences announces that effective February 7, 2019, the graduate area of study in Sports Business Management is changing its name to Sport Hospitality. The name change reflects the College's broader graduate student commitment and its expertise in driving innovation to shape future leaders in the sport industry. Current graduate students enrolled in the Sports Business Management area of study will continue to receive a Master of Science in Human Environmental Sciences.

In a seamless transition, faculty will continue to prepare graduate students to excel in leadership/executive positions in the hospitality, tourism, and sport industries.

The College will provide research and scholarship opportunities preparing graduates to lead and, as a result, positively impact the economic and social well-being of citizens.

Sincerely,

Stuart Usdan,
Ph.D. Dean